CSQs, skills, and the partition you will not find

In this teaching map, a UCCX contact service queue is closest to a Five9 skill group: the people who can take that work. A UCCE skill group is a similar idea with a different name. Precision queues and attributes do not have a one-field equivalent you should invent. Five9 does not use CUCM partitions or calling search spaces. The boundary is the domain. If two businesses must not share lists, they are two domains, not two partitions.
