User profiles before user accounts

The planning roadmap says to define user profiles before you add user accounts. A profile is the permission bundle. An account is the person. Creating people first and hoping the default permissions match the job is how reporting and call-variable edits go missing. Skill groups then take users who already have the agent or supervisor role. An administrator account is not automatically a member of a queue.
Create a profile before accounts
Keep admin rights off the agent profile

Sources and go deeper
Planning your implementation. vendor. https://documentation.five9.com/bundle/basic-admin/page/basic-admin/intro/planning-your-implementation.htm. last checked 2026-10.
Skill groups. vendor. https://documentation.five9.com/bundle/basic-admin/page/basic-admin/skill-groups/_ch-skill-groups.htm. last checked 2026-10.